

Fulda, den 29.04.2019

„GNP-Prize“ 2019 for Cognitive and Clinical Neuropsychology

The German Society of Neuropsychology (Gesellschaft für Neuropsychologie, GNP) has been founded in 1986 as a scientific organization of German speaking neuropsychologists working in the fields of neuropsychological assessment, rehabilitation and research.

Our main objective is to provide guidelines for postgraduate education and quality control in the area of Clinical Neuropsychology. Since 1986, the GNP promoted the professionalization and research in the area of Clinical and Cognitive Neuropsychology: a first formal curriculum for postgraduate education in Clinical Neuropsychology has been introduced in 1998 and certification services for qualified Clinical Neuropsychologists as well as accreditation procedures for courses and educational institutions are provided.

Therefore, the GNP awards a research prize in the field of Neuropsychology and Neuroscience for junior scientists.

The GNP prize is intended to award junior scientists (maximum age 35 plus maternal/paternal leaves) from universities or non-university institutions (e.g. rehabilitation clinics) for outstanding and exemplary research work in the field of Clinical and Cognitive Neuropsychology.

Prize money

The total prize money is EURO 1.000.

Award

The prize will be awarded by a jury of scientists in the field of Clinical and Cognitive Neuropsychology. The award ceremony will take place during the FESN Congress (The European Congress of Neuropsychology) from 05.09.2019-07.09.2019 in Milan.

Requirements/Qualification

Approved for submission are academic diploma or master thesis or dissertations and theses, published project reports, book publications and specialist journal articles in German or English, which have been completed within the past two year.

Papers which are published in German or English journals will be preferred.

The submitted paper may not already have been awarded a prize elsewhere. Repeated applications with the same paper will not be considered.

The decision of the trustees is final and cannot be contested The legal process is excluded.

Applicants are kindly requested to indicate when submitting their documents whether they can attend the award ceremony at the FESN Congress in Milan.

The work must be submitted to the GNP office together with a general summary (PDF format, max 1500 characters including spaces) and a tabular CV (PDF format) by 31.05.2019 by e-mail (max 3 MB).

GNP Geschäftsstelle
Nikolausstraße 10
36037 Fulda
Deutschland
fulda@gnp.de